Council mulls citizen priorities

► Citizen survey to affect council's decision-making: Alderman ► Public consultation conducted over course of three and a half months ► Council voted in February to designate money for research

 KATIE TURNER
CALTGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Balancing Calgarians' wish lists with a projected shortfall of at least $50 million won't be an easy task, according to several aldermen.

Rookie Ald. Richard Pootmans said the city's extensive public-consultation process, which totalled roughly $800,000 and reached over 23,000 Calgarians, will heavily factor into his decision-making tomorrow.

"I think the citizens have spoken through this process and I think if we want to encourage input like this, it behooves us to listen to it," he said.

However, Ald. Ray Jones said the reality is the city doesn't have the cash to satisfy everyone.

"Reports are exactly that, they're reports," he said. "A lot of people have ideas of how we can do things, but everyone's ideas aren't necessarily going to save money — they may cost money."

■ PHARMACY TECHNICIAN DIPLOMA (just over 1 yr)

Alicia liked the idea of helping people but just didn't know what career was right for her. Her father always told her, "If you want to be the best, train with the best." So, Alicia did her research and discovered that

It's MORE than just a label for Alicia

Bow Valley College, along with offering more than 50 career programs, is a leader in Pharmacy Technician education. Alicia then spoke with a Bow Valley College advisor and found out that students in BVC's nationally-accredited Pharmacy Technician program are trained in a world-class pharmacy lab right on campus, where they receive realistic, hands-on training, ensuring they are job ready in just over one year! Alicia also found out that she'll earn more as a Pharmacy Technician—up to $32 an hour. Alicia filled out the online application and knows with the right training, she'll succeed in her career as a Pharmacy Technician.

OF POVERTYMINIMUM
LIVING

JEREMY NOLAS

Something as simple as a flat tire can sideline your vehicle for months.

If a family member becomes sick, resulting medical bills can stack on years and years of debt.

These are the realities faced by 150,000 Calgarians living in poverty every day, says advocate Dan Meades with Vibrant Communities Calgary.

Living on minimum wage this past month, my girlfriend and I were curious whether we would still be able to pocket a little cash for our rainy-day fund.

With a few days remaining, I can honestly say we barely have two pennies to rub together, but we got by relatively unscathed.

Meades said all of the issues faced by the impoverished are intertwined, creating a never-ending cycle that will require third-party help to break.

"We need to start thinking about poverty as a root cause, as a complex problem and to start with implementing what would be a complex solution to that complex problem," he said.

► Mayor Naheed Nenshi said yesterday that Calgary Transit and council will reassess the new airport bus route at the end of the year to determine if the services are valuable to Calgarians.

Direct bus service to airport begins today

► Route 300 starts service at 5 a.m. ► Mayor says route was launched quickly ► Kinks, like luggage space, remain to be worked out after trial

@METRONEWS.CA

Mayor Naheed Nenshi said he's taken public transit in many North American cities from the airport to the downtown core — except Calgary.

Now Nenshi, along with other jet-setting Calgarians, will have a direct transit link from downtown to the airport.

For the next six months, Calgary Transit will be operating Route 300, at a net cost of $336,000 from the city's innovation fund, to see if the service is useful to Calgarians.

"Rather than wait three years and plan the route perfectly before launching it, we just launched it in a very short period of time to see if it works," said Nenshi.

Doug Morgan, manager of service design, said transit hasn't invested in retrofitting the buses for luggage storage but will reassess after six months.

"We're going to have to see if it's going to be a big problem," said Morgan, adding that it's estimated about 1,200 people will use the route daily.

Nenshi said the new route is vital, especially following the closure of Barlow Trail.

Cost and time

Travel time is estimated at 30 minutes from the airport to downtown.

- The bus will run seven days a week from 5 a.m. to midnight.
- The cost from the airport to downtown is $8, while a trip to the airport will be a regular fare of $2.75.

Raising a gender-neutral society

► Breaking down gender roles is a core mission in Sweden's preschool curriculum ► Not everyone on board

At the Egalia preschool in Stockholm, staff avoid using words like "him" or "her" and address the 33 kids as "friends" rather than girls and boys.

From the colour and placement of toys to the choice of books, every detail has been carefully planned to make sure the children don't fall into gender stereotypes.

"Society expects girls to be girly, nice and pretty, and boys to be manly, rough and outgoing," says Jenny Johnsson, a 31-year-old teacher. "Egalia gives them a fantastic opportunity to be whoever they want to be."

The preschool is among the most radical examples of Sweden's efforts to engineer equality between the sexes from childhood onward. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Too far?

- Some parents worry things have gone too far. An obsession with obliterating gender roles, they say, could make the children confused and ill-prepared to face the world outside kindergarten.
- "Different gender roles aren't problematic as long as they are equally valued," says Tanja Bergkvist, a 37-year-old blogger and a leading voice against what she calls "gender madness" in Sweden.
- Those bent on shattering gender roles "say there's a hierarchy where everything that boys do is given higher value, but I wonder who decides that it has higher value," she says. "Why is there higher value in playing with cars?"

Calgary teen to be youngest space traveller?

A Canadian teen could become the youngest person ever to go into space.

The 17-year-old Calgary boy is among hundreds of space tourists who have already reserved their place for a flight into the cosmos.

So far, 440 individuals have paid deposits for trips aboard billionaire Sir Richard Branson's Virgin Galactic spaceships and are waiting for final tests to be completed.

The teenager didn't want to be identified.

While many teenagers expect to get their driver's licence when they turn 16, travel agent Michael Broadhurst says the young Calgarian was already looking beyond the horizon.

"He had the money for the space trip put down for him when he was 16," Broadhurst said. "He's 17 now and he will fly at 18.

"He is actually the only one at the moment who is under 18 on the list."

Virgin Galactic won't fly anyone under 18.

The travel agent says it could be another year or two before the teenager, who will be accompanied by a parent, will actually fly.

The Space Today website says Russian cosmonaut Gherman Titov was the youngest person ever to go to orbit. He flew in August 1961 at the age of 25.

Virgin Galactic says 23 Canadians — 17 men and six women — are among those who have reserved a space flight, which costs $200,000 US for each traveller. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Determined Filipino family ignores skeptics to succeed in Canada

When Erick Alfonso meets immigrants who feel overwhelmed, he gives them hope by telling his own family's story. In fact, the Manila native and his wife achieved personal success in a remarkably short time, by ignoring skeptics who scoffed at their Canadian dreams.

Now working as a Manager of Customer Service at Scotiabank in Calgary, Alberta, Erick remembers how friends discouraged them from migrating to Canada with their five young children.

"They told us that you need Canadian experience to find a job," recalls the former IT project manager at a Philippine bank. "But we decided to try because we knew it was a good country to raise our kids."

Upon arrival in Canada in 2006, the Alfonso discovered that many Filipino compatriots were juggling low paying jobs to survive. While Erick also took a temporary factory job to pay the bills, he refused to give up hope.

"A friend told me to open my first bank account at Scotiabank, and the teller was so helpful that I decided to submit my resumé," recounts Erick. To his amazement, the branch manager hired him within a month as a casual teller, and two months later, gave him a full-time customer support role.

"I was lucky that Scotiabank gave me the chance to prove myself," notes Erick, who has risen through the ranks and now serves many Asian customers at Calgary's Castleridge Centre Branch. "I can relate to them because I remember arriving with no bank account and no permanent address. The Scotiabanker explained everything to me, and I try to do the same for others today."

For example, Erick recommends the Scotiabank StartRight® Program¹ for Newcomers, which includes a free day-to-day bank account for one year², a wide range of VISA³ card options³ and a number of other customized services and benefits. He also provides plenty of first-hand financial advice.

"Since many newcomers arrive with personal savings, I help them invest their savings wisely, including short-term investments such as a Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA), which lets them earn tax-free income that they can access later for other needs," says Erick.

He also explains the importance of building a Canadian credit history. "Some newcomers are afraid to use credit cards, but I tell them how it can help them achieve other goals if they use it responsibly."

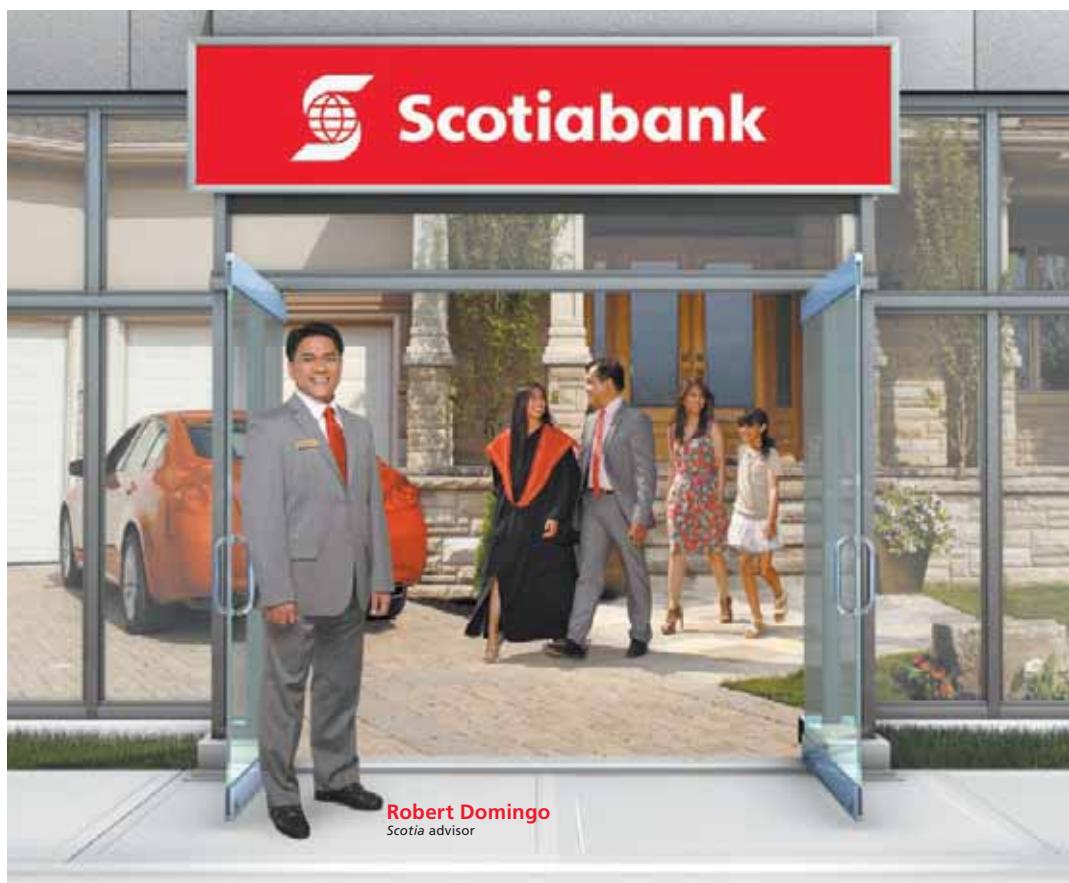

Erick also gives pep talks on job searches, based on his experience and that of his wife's, Maria Rosario, who within a year moved from a temporary accounting job to accounting manager with a local firm.

"We didn't do anything special, but we were determined. By believing in ourselves and supporting each other, we got through each difficulty," says Erick. "It is possible... If you show what you can do, you can build the right connections and open the door to a new life in Canada."

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK.

Now established as a Scotiabank Manager, Erick Alfonso welcomes other new Canadians to his branch.

"Robert helped open the door to our new start in Canada."

Obama's auto-pen wields new powers

► For decades, presidents let auto-pens scrawl their signatures ► But signing a bill into law believed a first

It's the open secret that nobody in the U.S. government wants to talk about: That cherished presidential signature that's tucked away in a scrapbook or framed for all to see might never have passed under the president's hand.

Jim Cicconi, who oversaw the use of auto-pens for former president George H.W. Bush, recalls that the plastic signature templates for the machines would wear out from repeated use. Ronald Reagan had 22 different signature templates, including "Ron," "Dutch" and other iterations, says Stephen Koschal, an autograph authenticator.

But U.S. President Barack

Obama took the auto-pen into a new realm.

While travelling in Europe last month, Obama directed his staff in Washington to use an auto-pen to sign into law an extension of certain Patriot Act powers to fight terrorism. The legislation had been approved by Congress at the last minute.

That didn't sit well with twenty-one Republican House members, who asked him to sign again with his real signature because use of the auto-pen "appears contrary to the Constitution."

Obama's team argued that the faux signature passed constitutional muster. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Impaired truckers pose public-safety risk: Database

Truckers hauling explosive or flammable loads have killed and badly injured people after getting drunk or stoned behind the wheel, an analysis by The Canadian Press has found.

Government crash reports reveal that thousands of people who transport dangerous cargo put themselves — and others — at even greater risk by driving while impaired and not taking enough care on Canada's roads and rails.

The Canadian Press obtained the database of reported accidents involving the transport of dangerous goods under the Access to Information Act.

An analysis found sleeping drivers, carelessness and negligence and handling cargo the wrong way are just some other reasons for thousands of crashes in the last 20 years.

Grads pressured to work for free

► Unpaid internships have taken the place of entry-level jobs ► Some positions illegal, experts say

Young Canadians eager to launch their careers say they're under mounting pressure to take unpaid internships that promise valuable experience and a foot in the door but rarely lead to permanent work.

Unpaid internships are replacing entry-level jobs, experts say, propelled in part by the recession.

But some of these positions are illegal, says Andrew Langille, an employment lawyer in Toronto, because interns are doing work typically performed by paid employees, he says.

Many young grads,

while willing to pay their dues at the office, say they can't afford to work for free, particularly while saddled with student loans.

"There's people who say young people expect everything right now, they want this great-paying job," says Heather Bellingham, a 26-year-old from Oshawa, Ont., who has held a string of unpaid internships since graduating from a film and television college program.

"I don't expect a lot — I would love minimum wage."

Hacker group tweets its end

A publicity-seeking hacker group that has left a trail of sabotaged websites over the last two months, including attacks on law enforcement and releases of private data, said unexpectedly on Saturday it is dissolving itself.

Lulz Security made its announcement through its Twitter account. It gave no reason for the disbandment, but it could be a sign of nerves in the face of law enforcement investigations. Rival hackers have also joined in the hunt, releasing information they say could point to the identities of the six-member group.

LulzSec claimed hacks on major entertainment companies, FBI partner organizations, the CIA, the U.S. Senate and a pornography website.

Kevin Mitnick, a security consultant and former hacker, said the group had probably concluded that the more they kept up their activities, the greater the chance that one of them

WAIVING SUMMER GOODBYE

URBAN COMPASS

JANICE PASKEY
METRO CALGARY

We love them and have gone for years. But now my eldest is old enough to volunteer. Time to give back.

This is what it takes for a 13-year-old to volunteer for one week at the City of Calgary:

- A volunteer release form.
- A police reference-check form.
- Two pieces of government issued ID.
- A photo release form.
- An emergency-contact form.
- A waiver form.
- A location-request form.

Overkill? As so many of these "waivers" are. And legal experts know they barely matter.

For parents everywhere, summer is "waiver time." Not just for volunteering but for all the summer camps needed for child care, and just about any sporting activities.

You think your kid is going to have a tremendous time, then you read about all the horrible things that can happen: Asphyxiation, broken bones bus accidents — or my favourite: Drowning under a swimming pool bulkhead.

It's no wonder lawyers who draft these documents suffer depression four times the rate of non-lawyers. And as a parent, I find reading the risks fuels parental guilt.

Then there's the issue of rights. The City of Calgary demands kids and parents give up their right to sue (that's in a big yellow box). I checked in with Iwan Saunders, law professor at U of C, to see if people can give up their right to sue.

Yes, is the answer. But it might not matter anyway.

"The legal standard has changed over the years, and it's changed more favourably for the victim," he says.

This holds even if the victims were aware of the risks, and waived the right to sue.

Still, Saunders notes, "presumably lawyers are telling their organizations that having (a) waiver is better than having none."

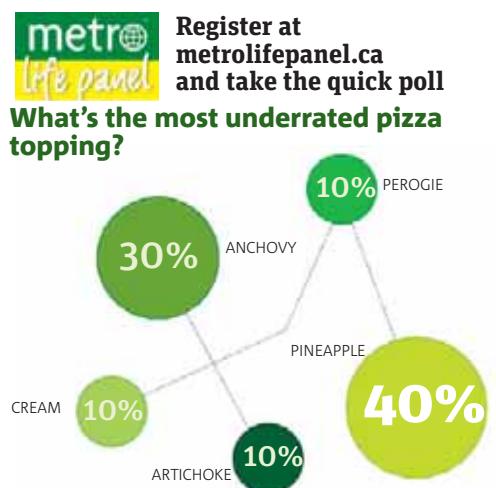

Would Saunders sign a waiver? Sure. "The waivers aren't written in a sufficiently conclusive way to make me concerned about my legal rights."

Maybe it's time to lay off these waivers. No one volunteers, plays sports or goes to an outing hellbent on suing. It takes really, really bad stuff to propel someone to court, and a waiver is unlikely to make difference.

Let's not scare the hell out of parents — and try to engage volunteers rather than ensnarl them in paper.

UNIVERSE. NASA says a newly discovered asteroid will have a close encounter with Earth today, but there's no need to worry.

The space agency's Near-Earth Object Program Office says the small space rock — dubbed 2011 MD — will pass 12,000 kilometres above Earth's surface over the southern Atlantic Ocean at about 7:30 a.m. MDT.

Though it will come close, it's not a distance record holder.

Earlier this year, a tiny asteroid flew by even closer — within 5,500 kilometres.

The International Business Times reported that 2011 MD will be the fifth-closest asteroid to graze past Earth.

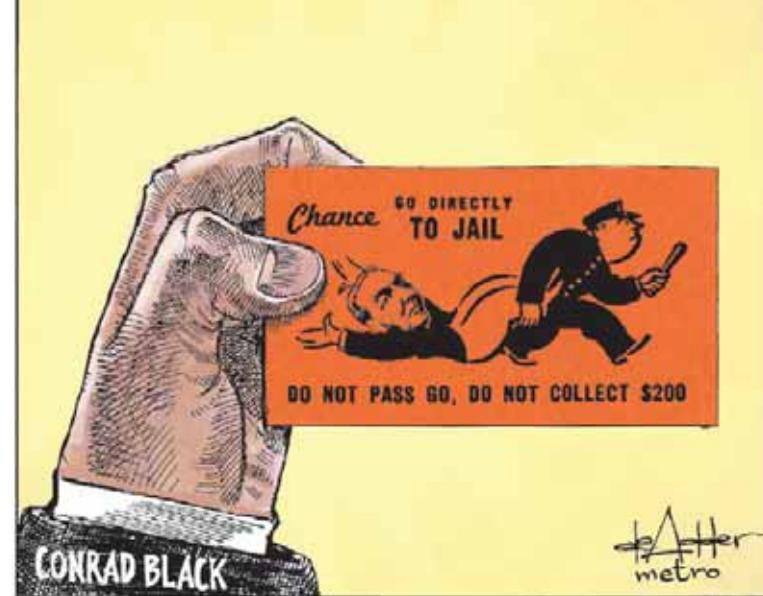

The latest asteroid measures 10 metres long and was discovered last week by telescopes in New Mexico.

Scientists say asteroids this size sail past Earth every six years.

The asteroid will briefly be bright enough that medium-size telescopes may be able to spot it.

Box office

Pixar Animation remains undefeated at the box office. The Disney unit's animated sequel Cars 2 cruised to a No. 1 finish with a $68 million opening weekend.

That makes 12 wins in a row for Pixar since 1995's Toy Story. Cars 2 nearly matched the $68.1 million debut of Disney-Pixar's Up two years ago, though it was well below the company's record of $110.3 million for 2010's Toy Story 3. Premiering in second-place was Cameron Diaz's classroom comedy Bad Teacher with $31 million.

The previous weekend's No. 1 flick, Ryan Reynolds' Green Lantern, fell to third with $18.4 million.

METRO WORLD NEWS IN MOSCOW

Russian movie fans were the first to see the third installment of the Transformers franchise — Transformers: Dark of the Moon — a glammed-up, red carpet world premiere which opened the 33rd Moscow International Film Festival.

Stars from the $200-million, high-octane 3D extravaganza gleefully soaked up the dizzying ambience of the Russian capital's cityspace, from the rooftop of the Ritz Carlton Hotel overlooking Red Square and the Kremlin, especially Michael Bay.

"You know, my granddad was from Russia," the 46-year-old director of the series confessed to reporters. "My granddad always said nothing good would come out of me and that all my life I'd work as a PE teacher. And so to spite him, I am holding the premiere in Moscow."

At the global press junket it was the irresistible John Malkovich who received the most attention from the Russian press; Malkovich has registered a stream of visits to the country that he almost considered a part of Russia's movie stardom. This time, the 57-year-old arrived in the company of a certain lady and two children.

"What will you show your kids in Moscow?" one reporter asked. Malkovich laughed off the question, preferring not to reveal too many secrets. "I didn't know that my kids were here," he said with a wry smile. "But if you see them around in the city, please tell them to urgently call me!"

But the Muscovite media circus wasn't done with their quizzing. Everyone was interested to know if Bay was not afraid in shooting the third

Transformers movie, after the second had been labeled worst movie of the year in many circles. "I find this particular question offensive, but nevertheless, I will thrive to answer it," Bay began. "Millions flocked to the theatres to see the second movie — not bad for the 'worst movie of the year,' right?"

Then Bay parries the question. "It's interesting — will the 'best movie of the year' be able to brag about something similar? As for the third movie, thanks to many innovations, has in my view turned out to be even better."

Fox fight

► Huntington-Whiteley

Transformers 3 marks the cinematic debut for British model Rosie Huntington-Whiteley of Victoria's Secret lingerie.

► She replaces Megan Fox as Shia LaBeouf's love interest.

► Of the duo, LaBeouf says "Megan and Rosie are completely different. I like them both. We miss Megan, but with Rosie we have a completely different role, and she has handled herself excellently!"

► Huntington-Whiteley says she was thrilled to get the role. "I was ecstatic when they invited me to play in the movie. Everyone there was simply wonderful! They all helped so much!"

Bollywood dazzles Canadian fans

► Priyanka Chopra at the International Indian Film Academy Award show.

Bollywood bombarded its Canadian fans with a glittering, multi-coloured carnival of song, dance and glamour as India's star-studded version of the Oscars made its North American debut Saturday, capping the showcase with an appearance by U.S. actors Hilary Swank and a Cuba Gooding Jr.

The five-hour bash, hosted by the International Indian Film Academy, parades

its biggest name, Bollywood king Shah Rukh Khan, and co-hosts Boman Irani and Ritesh Deshmukh.

It closed with Slumdog Millionaire star Anil Kapoor escorting Swank onto the stage to present a best actor award to Shah Rukh Khan for the 9/11 film, My Name is Khan.

"Namaste, Toronto. Na-

name, India. Namaste,

IIFA makes its North American debut and its biggest stars are you," Kapoor said.

"Thank you Ontario. Thank you so much for making us feel the warmth in Canada."

The events included a film festival, music workshop, business forum, fashion show and rock concert across the GTA.

Clooney called off romance with Canalis

George Clooney was reportedly the one who put a stop to his relationship with Elisabetta Canalis, according to Canalis' pal, Che editor Alfonso Signorini.

"From what I know it was him who dumped her and she stormed out of

Bond star weds Rachel Weisz in secret ceremony

- The British actors had been quietly dating since last November
- The pair play a married couple in the unreleased film Dream House

Daniel Craig and Rachel Weisz reportedly tied the knot last week in a super-secret wedding, according to People magazine.

The stars' hush-hush ceremony in New York City was attended by just four guests, including Craig's 18-year-old daughter and Weisz's 4-year-old son.

The pair has never spoken publicly about their relationship, though rumours of their romance began shortly after Weisz's split from Black Swan director Darren Aronofsky last November. ■ METRO

Did Lindsay just drink tea?

Lindsay Lohan is speaking out after her most recent court appearance last week.

"I am responsible, and I'm following the rules and obeying my judge and the Los Angeles judicial

"I'd like to do what I must to get my film career back and the respect of directors, actors, writers, studio heads, fans and so on."

While Lohan tested positive for alcohol earlier this month, she maintains it was due to her favourite kombucha tea, a fermented drink containing less than 0.05 per cent alcohol.

Stressed & pregnant

► As the pregnant wife of disgraced U.S. congressman Anthony Weiner, Huma Abedin has had a long few weeks ► It got us wondering: How does extreme stress affect one's baby-to-be?

THINKSTOCK.COM

► When pregnant, how much stress is too much?

SAM CASTONE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS

U.S. congressman Anthony Weiner recently resigned from office after sending lewd comments and photos to young women — and lying about it after getting caught by the press.

It was a shocking fall for a brash but effective politician — shocking more so because his wife, Huma Abedin, an aide to Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, is reportedly in the early stages of pregnancy.

As parents, we won-

"Extreme stress in pregnancy can lead to preterm delivery and low birth weight babies. And there may even be some evidence that it can lead to miscarriage."

DR. ARI BROWN, PEDIATRICIAN AND CO-AUTHOR OF EXPECTING 411

dered what affect the ongoing stress of a scandal might have on her baby.

All the mom-to-be books say you should try to reduce stress during the nine months. "It takes extreme amounts of stress to affect a pregnancy," says Dr. Ari Brown, a pediatrician and co-author of Expecting 411. "By extreme, this means divorce, death of a family member, major financial disaster or loss of home by fire. The day-to-day stresses of a job or home life that most of us experience is not enough to worry about."

Depending on your perspective, Weiner's behaviour might fall into the "extreme" category.

"We all process stressful situations differently," says Brown. "In the case of this particular situation, it is surely stressful for any pregnant woman to endure the emotional infidelity of her husband both privately and publicly.

"But, it would only be pure speculation how the two of them are handling this in the context of their relationship. And, frankly, it is none of our business!"

"What we do know medically," Brown continues, "is that extreme stress in pregnancy can lead to preterm delivery and low birth weight babies. And there may even be some evidence that it can lead to miscarriage."

One study in 2008 showed there might be a link between maternal stress and schizophrenia later in life.

"Stress increases the release of a hormone called cortisol, which is currently being investigated as the link to miscarriage, preterm labour, and unfortunate pregnancy outcomes," says Brown.

The moral of this story (and you don't need a medical study to prove it): If you're a father-to-be, don't cheat on your wife!

The not-so-sinful deviled eggs

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► This healthy version of the summer picnic and barbecue staple makes it more angelic than devilish

Devilled eggs are a classic accompaniment to summer picnics and barbecues. But they generally are loaded with fat and calories from the egg yolks and mayonnaise.

We set out to remake the filling to be flavourful, yet pack significantly less guilt. Egg yolks do have great nutritional value; the majority of an egg's vitamins and minerals are actually found in the yolk. But along with those nutrients are plenty of fat and cholesterol.

To lower the fat and cholesterol but keep the luscious flavour, we opted to use just some of the yolks. For the creaminess, we use a combo of low-fat mayonnaise and pureed low-fat cottage cheese..

Preparation:

1 Place eggs in a large saucepan and fill with cool water. Cover pan and bring to a boil over medium-high heat. Remove pan from heat and let sit for 15 minutes. Drain hot water, leaving eggs in pan. Fill pan with cold water and a cup of ice. Let eggs cool completely.

2 Meanwhile, in a food processor, combine cottage cheese, mayonnaise, mustard, vinegar and horseradish. Purée until smooth. Set aside.

Ingredients:

- 12 large eggs
- Ice
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) low-fat cottage cheese
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) low-fat mayonnaise
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) Dijon mustard
- 10 ml (2 tsp) cider vinegar
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) prepared horseradish
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) sweet pickle relish
- Salt and ground black pepper, to taste
- Fresh chives, to garnish
- Smoked paprika, to garnish whites. Discard half of the yolks.

4 In a medium bowl, mash remaining yolks. Add puréed dressing mixture and relish. Stir to combine, then season with salt and black pepper. Using a pastry bag or a zip-close bag with the corner cut off, or using a spoon, refill wells in the egg whites. Garnish tops with a sprinkle of smoked paprika and some chopped chives.

One career for a lifetime?

► The film Larry Crowne paints a picture of a man who's forced to pursue an entirely different career path after losing his job ► He heads back to college and rediscovers himself ► What if you had the choice to start again? ► Former Associated Press journalist Jessica Mintz explains how, and why, she made the decision to start over

We all have those moments: The alarm goes off, and we think, "Do I really have to go to work today?"

Most of the time, reason and routine win. We dismiss the thought, hop out of bed, hit the shower, have a coffee and merge into the morning commute.

Sometimes, though, we stop and really consider the question. Maybe we're burned out or unhappy with the job. Maybe we had abandoned a childhood dream or found a new passion along the way. And thanks to luck, financial planning and the support of loved ones — or maybe just a high tolerance for risk — we realize: Quitting is an option.

When I tell people I quit my job as a reporter for The Associated Press to become a veterinarian — that I am taking the first of a zillion pre-vet science classes in a plan that now extends into the year 2020 — many say they wish they could take that plunge.

I think the reason so many don't is that it's painful to admit we made a mistake. And quitting, well, isn't that just another word for failing?

In my case, my experience with animals was limited to childhood pets: a goldfish, two small lizards and a hermit crab. Recently, however, I adopted a mutt from the shelter and started volunteering there. When she was hurt in an accident, I spent a lot of time talking to surgeons and rehab specialists. That's when the idea of ditching the career I had pursued for more than a decade took hold.

I found countless reasons to doubt my motives. Was I mistaking the pleasure of a new hobby for a calling? Would I be trading the petty complaints about one job for similar gripes about another?

Changing careers is not uncommon, as it turns out; Americans typically do it five to seven times in their lives, and increasingly, they are seeking more meaningful work, said Kimberly Key, president of the National Employment Counseling Association.

"You didn't see this 25 to 50 years ago. People weren't trying to have meaningful careers. They

Taking the leap

When Pamela Bleisch landed a dream tenure-track job at Boston University, she found herself feeling isolated, drowning under pressure to publish. So she got a graduate degree in library sciences instead. Her advice to others contemplating a big leap?

were trying to focus on family, survive, and take care of the next generations," Key said. "As we evolved as a society, in our thirst for work, to survive, to grow, to be the best, to compete in the world, we lost something."

There also is an ongoing shift in the type of jobs available, from full-time positions to contract ones. Jobs that offer lifelong security and benefits are becoming endangered, Key said. Rather than see this as a negative, though, she thinks that accepting it can remove the stress and shame of changing careers.

Take AnneMette Lavery, who after 12 unhappy years as a health-care analyst joined the Foreign Service and was posted to Beijing, only to realize it made her miserable. What she eventually found she loved was teaching yoga, and she formed a new plan to become an instructor and certified life coach.

To pursue her calling, she had to give up something she always valued: financial independence. Thanks to support from her husband, she now teaches yoga part-time in Pinehurst, N.C., and plans to move to a larger city where she can expand her business soon.

"This job is the only job I have ever had in my life that I actually like, not to mention love," said Lavery.

Christine Sinclair gets ball into German net, but Canadians drop World Cup opener 2-1 to two-time defending champions

She busted her nose and then bent it like Beckham. And then simply for effect, Canada's star striker Christine Sinclair blew a kiss to her coach.

Sporting a crooked nose and a well-deserved black captain's armband, Sinclair scored Canada's lone goal on a lovely bending free kick yesterday as the sixth-ranked Canadians opened the 2011 Women's World Cup with a 2-1 loss to two-time defending champion Germany.

"That's Sinky," said Canadian striker Melissa Tancredi. "She plays through anything, which is what a captain should do."

Sinclair's goal in the 82nd minute — No. 117 of her illustrious career — marked the first the mighty German side had conceded in a World Cup tournament since 2003. It also came 34 minutes after Canada's powerful five-foot-nine striker was knocked to her knees, plowed in the face by an elbow from Babett Peter.

"I looked at (Sinclair) — she takes the front post on corners — and thought, 'Oh my. Her nose is like a big zig-zag,'" said Canada's goalkeeper Erin Mcleod. "I said, 'Do you really want to still be here?' And she said 'Yeah, I got it.'

"She's tough. She wears the armband for a reason."

The 28-year-old Sinclair was down on all fours on the Olympiastadion grass for several minutes after the harsh blow, for which no foul was given, and then was helped to the sidelines where she argued with a Canadian medical official to let her go back into the game. She swatted away his hand and said, "I'm fine. Don't touch me."

Canada's coach Carolina Morace was advised to pull her out of the game, the medical official bending Sinclair's nose to display the damage. But the Burnaby, B.C., native was back in the game moments later, and Morace has no doubt her gutsy captain will be back on the pitch Thursday when the Canadians take on France.

"What do you think? If she played today with the nose broken, do you think I can take her off the field next time?" the Italian coach said with a laugh.

Sinclair was sent to a nearby Berlin hospital immediately after the game, and Morace said she'll likely wear a protective mask in the next game.

"It doesn't look the prettiest right now," Tancredi said, with a giggle.

Smyth returns to Oilers

This past week has felt like a prize fight to Ryan Smyth.

Smyth's proposed trade to Edmonton from Los Angeles had been rumoured for days, but hit several snags before the two sides eventually came to an agreement yesterday that saw the Oilers send the Kings forward Colin Fraser and a seventh-round draft choice in the 2012 NHL entry draft.

"It was tough and it was exhausting," Smyth said on a conference call. "It was almost like going through a boxing match, 12 rounds, and in the end finding out that you're appreciated in regards to being an Oiler again."

"It was a pretty emotional ride, but in the end I really believe this is where God wanted us to be. So we're really excited."

Smyth and his family had been thinking about the possibility of moving for six weeks.

"My wife and I discussed for a little while that we wanted to come back to Canada for personal reasons. That's where home is for us," Smyth said. "The kids are starting out in school. We just felt it would be best for us to come back."

Smyth had 23 goals and 24 assists in 82 games last season with Los Angeles. He started his NHL career with the Oilers in 1994-95 when Edmonton drafted him sixth overall in the 1994 draft. He was dealt to the New York Islanders in a surprise deadline deal in February 2007.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

"There was a couple of teams in the mix. (The Flames) were one of them for sure. The fact that they were willing and excited, I thank them for that. But obviously it would have been really tough emotionally with the Edmonton blood that's in me."
